

Request for Qualifications RFQ-2023
Carbon County Office of Tourism
Marketing/PR Campaign and Media Buys

Carbon County Office of Tourism is looking for vendor(s) to guide and implement a creative-precise marketing and PR strategy, and oversee associated media buying and manage multiple social media sites. Respondents may reply to all, or the creative portion, or the media portion of this RFQ.

Carbon County aims to attract and support visitors who travel thoughtfully and engage with local communities and businesses in order to create more memorable and connective experiences. In most cases, this equates to longer visits and increased spending. In addition to improving the quality of visitor experience, this approach will increase travelers' economic impacts through longer stays and additional services, including guided travel, workshops, and add-on options.

Carbon County is looking to make responsible incremental growth that will begin to expand our economy and quality of life. Our residents are proud and protective of our beautiful assets and while they are interested in growth, they want it to be conscientious thus preventing us from becoming overgrown. However, tourism is the front-door to economic development in other industries as our visitors sometimes become residents and business owners. It is important to Carbon County to attract visitors that appreciate the culture, heritage, and values that are part of the heart of Carbon County in order to ensure that the traditions live on as we grow. We do not want to not mimic any other destination, but to maintain the uniqueness of our own as we continue to welcome visitors from around the world. Many local communities have expressed over the years that "we don't want to become Moab or Park City."

Carbon County has a total population of 24,418. It is lined in a "corridor like way" with several small and unique communities including Price City, the county seat and the "hub" of the corridor; Helper City, known as the "main street" of the corridor; Wellington City, a small community located in the heart of the county; East Carbon City, the corridor's hidden gem, and Scofield, known best for their State Park. We are looking for ideas of how to creatively expand our messaging to include all the towns and cities through media opportunities that will increase bookings while continuing to grow awareness and momentum of our brand and tagline, Carbon Corridor, Start Here.

About the Brand

Carbon Corridor was created in 2018 through a new destination development and branding/marketing pilot program offered by the Utah Office of Tourism (UOT). We went through an extensive branding process to create a brand that is inclusive county wide. Formerly known as Castle Country, a regional brand that included both Carbon and Emery counties, that no longer served us as Emery County underwent their own rebranding. After much consideration and with the help of the Utah Office of Tourism, we arrived at the Carbon Corridor. We are located halfway between Salt Lake City and Moab with easy access to the San Rafael Swell in Emery County, which makes us an ideal home base or a convenient stop along the way. We would like to capitalize on our own landscape where people can slow down, start here, and adventure throughout the county. We have the beautiful Nine Mile Canyon, known as the world's largest outdoor art gallery. Our Wood Hill Trail System, designated back in 2017, provides access to approximately 30 miles of single track trail for mountain biking and running. Our assets also include Range Creek Canyon, Gordon Creek Falls, North Springs Shooting Range, Carbon Event & Recreation Complex, Historic Coke Ovens, Energy (Scenic Byway) Loop, Historic Helper Main Street, Helper Mining & Railroad Museum, USU Eastern Prehistoric Museum, as well as over 250 miles of an OHV Trail System, to name a few.

After three years of focusing on brand awareness we are now ready to further develop the dimension and depth of our creative identity to demonstrate the attractiveness of Carbon County. We want to be known as a unique and connective experience rather than a pit stop along HWY 6. We believe that part of that includes sharing the nature and character of the people, our history, heritage, lifestyle, values, and activities meaningful to our locals.

Local Pride

We believe our locals are our first audience. We always take into consideration the impact of our efforts on the quality of life for our locals. We don't want mass numbers of visitors like many destinations have sought. That is why we want to stay focused on quality tourists as opposed to quantity tourists.

Locals and alumni are some of our best ambassadors. We want our creativity to be backed by and instill pride in our locals. We want to have some of our creative endeavors placed locally so they will take pride in how we present ourselves to the visitors regionally, nationally, and internationally.

For example, Carbon Corridor as a new brand has been met with some resistance as some locals find it hard to move away from the old brand. However, we agree that some work needs to be done on the local level to change how locals feel about the needed change by helping them embrace it.

Measures and Metrics

Carbon County is committed to campaigning using measurables. We desire to have more sustainable, year-round tourism and extend the average length of stay. We are also sensitive to representing the objective of controlled and responsible growth. For example, we may identify a goal of increasing our visitation by 30%. Monitoring a goal like this could come from a qualitative and quantitative analysis that shows a 30% maximum increase allowed. That way we're not compromising the quality of the experience for both the visitors and the residents. The work considered under this RFQ would include a strategy to help prevent surpassing that threshold.

Markets

The top domestic markets for Carbon County are Salt Lake City, Utah, Denver, Colorado, and Los Angeles, California.

We also get day-trippers from all over who are commonly known to visit Emery County (east and west) for outdoor recreational activities. We have marketed these areas for events and believe there are more opportunities in these communities, including ours, for more day-trippers and perhaps weekenders to experience our growing need for a “less crowds” visitation experience.

Tourism Operation

Carbon County Office of Tourism is currently structured by a Director of Economic Development & Tourism, a Tourism Specialist, a part-time Administrative Assistant, and a part-time contracted Content Creator. Our current Tax Advisory Board is managed by the Tourism Office and consists of 9 members with the majority being from the hotel and/or restaurant industry.

Carbon County Office of Tourism operates solely on Transient Room Tax (TRT), which is collected from short-term rentals/lodging in Carbon County.

Expectation for Deliverable by Carbon County

The chosen vendor is expected to provide these deliverables as part of this contract, though specific details and expectations will be outlined and agreed upon as part of the final collaborative process of building a scope of work.
